Today

Fly in the Ointment.
New Independence Day.
Another Canal.
Dance, Says the Bishop.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.
(Copyright, 1929, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

BALDWIN is out. Ramsay Mac-Donald is in. The King, from his sick bed, asks him to form a government.

PRESIDENT HOOVER will hear
from MacDonald, head of Britain's Labor party, that he, MacDonald, on behalf of the British Empire, will do anything in reason about reducing armaments.

That will please all that prefer economy to safety.

THE only fly in the pacifist ointment is the fact that about the time
the United States and Ramsay Mac-Donald get ready to act, MacDonald
perhaps, won't be prime minister any more. Somebody will take his place and say, "Britain must rule the sea and the air. All that disarmament talk is OUT." America and Great Britain should be well armed and force peace on the world.

TUESDAY, June 4, was another Independence day.

It marked the tenth anniversary of the adoption by Congress of the woman suffrage amendment.

Women, until 10 years ago, were classified officially with idiots and Indians, "not voting."

The abolition of bodily slavery was important.

This day marks the abolition of mental slavery among women, a slavery worse than physical slavery.

IMPORTANT and gratifying is the news from Washington that President Hoover will appoint a consulting board of Army and civilian engineers to consider the construction of a canal through Nicaragua.

THAT will be another link between the Atlantic and the Pacific, and PROPERTY OF THE UNITED STATES, LIKE THE PANAMA

Miss Grace Borchert, member of the June division, is poetess of the 1929 graduating classes of the Lincoln high school, Midland, Pa. She will enroll in Oberlin college, Oberlin, O., next fall.

MISS BORCHERT MIDLAND HIGH SONG COMPOSER

Lincoln Poetess is Daughter of G. A.
Borchert.

ENTERS OBERLIN

Song Will be Feature
Of Program for Commencement.

MIDLAND, Pa., June 6.—Miss Grace
Borchert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
G. A. Borchert, Penn avenue, composed the class song which will be sung
at Lincoln high school commencement exercises tonight, when the class poetess and 31 other graduates will receive diplomas.

The song was used in the Senior Class day exercises in answering the girls' chorus praises and farewells to the graduates.

Miss Borchert played one of the leading parts in the operetta, "Tulip Time," which was the first musical production staged by Lincoln high school students.

She will enroll next fall at Oberlin college, Oberlin, O.

Following is the "class song":

Dear Lincoln high we have your halls,
With happy memories of days gone
by.

This vast world puts forth its call.
For us to go forth with ne'er a sigh.

Chorus.

Sing, oh sing for Lincoln high school.

Our loyalty we pledge to you,
Fame and fate beckon us far and wide.

But your spirit of truth shall be our guide.

Oh its ever Lincoln high school,
The dear old Gold and Blue

Our hearts are happy and our voices ring true.

The class of twenty-nine bids farewell to you.

We ask of thee oh pride of our youth

Remain with us in your spirit and truth,

For by your strength we cannot fail,

As on a strange ocean we must sail.

American Thorough-bred's Victory at Epsom Downs is First Upon English Turf.

ATHFORD SECOND,
PLANTAGO THIRD

Brother of Trigo, Winner of Derby, Gives Yankee Horse Hard Run.

EPSOM, Eng., June 6.— (INS)—The American thoroughbred Reigh Count owned by Mrs. John D. Hertz, of Chicago, today redeemed his three previous defeats by winning the Coronation cup on Epsom Downs. It was the first race Reigh Count has won upon the English turf.

Betting Odds 10 to 1.
Athford finished second, and Plantago, third. Nine horses ran.
The betting odds were 10 to 1 on Reigh Count; 90 to 4 on Athford and 5 to 1 on Plantago.

The American-bred horse won by a short head.
Athford, a brother of Trigo, the sensational winner of yesterday's derby, gave Reigh Count a hard run in the stretch. Athford picked up towards the end of the mile and a half contest
and was running strong at the finish,
almost neck and neck with the American 4-year-old.

Victory Predicted by Owner.

Great things were expected of the American horse when he was brought to England from the United States
last spring, but the "invasion" proved unsuccessful until today. Reigh Count failed to show winning form in either of the three previous races. However, Mrs. Hertz was not discouraged and confidently predicted that he would capture the Coronation cup.

BANK BANDITS FLEE WITH $5,000

BRISTOL, Pa., June 6.—(INS)— Invading the Cornwell state bank
at Cornwell Heights, eight miles south of Bristol, Bucks county, at 10 a. m. today three unmasked and armed bandits held at bay four employees and a depositor, locked them in the vault, scooped up $5,000 or more and speeded away
in an automobile. A fourth man stayed at the wheel of their car.

The robbers came from the direction of Philadelphia and fled toward that city unpursued. Before leaving the bank, the men cut all telephone wires.

Has Ohio Speed Limit? No! Yes! It Has, It Hasn't, Is Decision of Supreme Court

Motorist Exceeding 25-mile Limit is Freed.

BY JOHN J. VINCENT,
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.
COLUMBUS, O., June 6.—Has Ohio
a speed limit?

No! Yes! It has and it hasn't.

As paradoxical as the foregoing statements seem, they are correct.

The authority of the declarations
are based on a decision of the Ohio
supreme court, which is reason enough for any article.

In a ruling handed down yesterday,
which was the subject of much and varied discussion today, the highest court in the Buckeye state, freed a motorist who admittedly exceeded the speed limit of 25 miles an hour in the city of Lakewood, near Cleveland.
But, (there's always an exception in such cases), the man claimed he had

Bookies, Widows Cash Epsom Derby Tickets

Many Happy Hearts in England as Result of Victory of Trigo, 33 to 1.

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, June 6.—There were many happy hearts in England today, and many of them beat flutteringly in the breasts of bookmakers.

The victory of Trigo, a 33 to 1 outsider, in the annual British derby at Epsom Downs, gave the "bookies" one of their greatest days in years, for a comparatively small amount of money
had been bet on this horse, the bulk going to Cragside, Mr. Jinks, Kops and Hunter's Moon, none of which finished "in the money."

Besides the bookmakers, a small but select number of persons throughout the world also had reason to be cheerful. They were those fortunate enough to hold winning numbers in the great BRITAIN CREATES NEW CABINET JOB

LONDON, June 6.—(INS)—A newly-created post to deal with unemployment will be included in the labor government of Premier-designate J. Ramsay MacDonald, it was learned this afternoon.

J. H. Thomas, one of the leaders of the Labor party, confirmed that he has accepted the portfolio of minister of employment
—the new office which will attempt to ameliorate unemployment conditions in Britain.

Ruling Hits "Traps" and Ordinances in Mu- nicipalities.

Limits on a wide, well-paved stretch
of highway—a "speed trap."

It is believed the decision will be of far-reaching results. Most officials here refused to comment on it, declaring the decision presented too many technicalities.

In Michigan there is no speed limit.
The Ohio supreme court decision,
it was expressed, is somewhat of a parallel.

It came at an opportune time. Inasmuch as the Borden law, which boosts
the limit in Ohio to 45 miles an hour
on highways, 35 miles in residential districts and 20 miles in congested areas of cities, becomes effective July 21.

FEDERAL SQUAD TURNS GUNS ON NEW YORK RING

Fur Dealers and Other Business Men Trapped.

12 UNDER ARREST

Comte de Polignac, Alleged European Agent, Held.

NEW YORK, June 5.— (INS)—A French nobleman, importers, fur dealers and many other businessmen were trapped
today as 40 armed federal agents launched a series of widespread raids in Manhattan and Brooklyn to break up a gi-gantic international liquor ring supplying New York's fashionable set.

Rare Wines Confiscated.

Sweeping down on warehouses,
business offices, homes and hotels,
agents arrested a dozen of the alleged ring leaders within the first hour and confiscated rare wines, liquors and cordials worth a fortune.

The nobleman, Comte de Polignac, alleged to be the European agent for the ring, was arrested in his luxu-rante suite in the Savoy-Plaza hotel.

A revolver was taken from him
and several cases of champagne were confiscated, the agents reported to their chief, William J. Calhoun, who directed the raids from his office in the sub-basement building.

Calhoun said that Comte de Polignac is a bona fide member of the French nobility and has moved in the most exclusive society circles in the United States.

The DePolignac family has waxed wealthy in Europe from the profits of an exclusive brand of champagne.

The comte's plans to leave the country on the liner Paris tomorrow led Calhoun to order the raids today
instead of next week when it is alleged
a large shipment of liquor was due to arrive from Europe.

Organized Traffic Revealed.

The raids promise to unfurl the largest organized traffic in liquor smuggling recorded since prohibition,
according to Calhoun.

The ring maintains its own selling force, its own trucking force, its own warehouses over which armed men stand guard and which are also protected by burglar alarms, according to Calhoun.

It possesses its own "business offices" in various New York skyscrapers and in a dozen towns all over the country and its own sub-stations in the homes of members.

The organization has been operating on a national and international scale, according to Calhoun, for months if not years. Comte de Polignac made periodic visits to Europe from where he shipped the liquor to this country, Calhoun alleges, labeling
it cackery, glassware and other materials.

LINDY HONEYMOON YACHT IS "LOST"

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., June 6.— (INS)—The motor yacht Monette, supposed to be the "honeymoon craft"
of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and his bride, was believed to have been anchored during the night off the isles of Shoals, according to a report reaching the mainland here today.

BOSTON, June 6.—(INS)—The power cruiser Monette, believed to be the "honeymoon yacht" of Colonel Charles
A. Lindbergh and his bride, today had been "lost" to newspaper searchers.
It was last seen early yesterday in Massachusetts bay near the tip of Cape Cod. Marblehead was being watched today, a report having been received that the Monette was due to call there.

Jay-walking Banned, Too

The services department has marked crosswalks in the downtown business district as a reminder to the public that the pedestrian as well as the motorist has a obligation to discharge in the city-wide campaign to reduce the traffic toll.

Thanks to the recent safety campaign conducted by the Columbiana County Motor club, in which the lesson of caution on the streets was carried into the schools
and homes, there has been a noticeable decrease in automobile accidents in East Liverpool. However, there is still room for improvement.

The automobile driver, unless he is reckless, is not alone responsible for traffic accidents, in which most of the victims are pedestrians. Jay-walking, or darting across streets in the center of the block, has contributed no few names to the list of dead and injured.

East Liverpool, like other cities, has an ordinance which prohibits jay-walking. However, police, out of kindness, do not enforce the regulations beyond warning pedestrians who persist in the dangerous practice in the business zone. Men, women and children who use the streets should exercise as much care in complying with traffic regulations as the driver at the wheel of a motor car.

With the installation of two automatic signal lights in the Diamond—at the Dresden avenue and St. Clair avenue intersections—pedestrians should pay more attention to traffic regulations. They have no more rights on the streets than automobiles. In fact, they must cooperate with motorists if the traffic toll is to be reduced.
Don't be a jay-walker.

Bicycling

Sometimes as often as once a week, it is possible to see some gentleman, aged 20 or more, riding a bicycle within the confines of the city. He is a workman who probably cannot afford a motor car.

Every day, messenger boys may be seen riding bicycles, making impossible turns, short-cutting through tortuous alleys, never getting blocked by traffic jams and making splendid use of the bicycle, or the small motorcycle in work whose prime requisites are speed and surety—telegram deliveries.

What has become of the bicycle as a vehicle of adult 1 emotion? Why is its use restricted to workmen, messenger boys, cranks and college professors? There are thousands of places where a bicycle or a motorcycle
would be the most practical conveyance possible. Traffic congestion would be automatically taken care of, if only one-third of the population would use bicycles or motorcycles. There would be savings of millions of dollars for upkeep costs on automobiles, parking space,
police tags and crumpled fenders.

Some cities are too large, of course, to make any locomotion attaining less than 49 miles an hour practical,
but there are scores of smaller cities where the subur-
banite could ride to work on a bicycle in as little time
as it takes to go in his automobile, including time spent on parking space quests and arguments. Why isn't the bicycle used? It would provide a recognized form of exercise, cheap transportation, eliminate traffic problems and a host of other things.

Perhaps the bicycle is too cheap. Anything that costs less than $100 is taboo with the American people. It is also too small to give a feeling of immeasurable power unless the pedal happens to have unusually muscular kicks. It does not roar and, under ordinary circumstances, it does not glitter. It requires no upkeep to speak of and therefore would be no symbol of income.
Its possibilities of design are limited to conservative, well-established fashions. In short, the bicycle just hasn't kept pace with the demands of a money-mad, speed-crazed, power-loving, speed-burning country which associates two wheeled, self-operated locomotion with the backward countries of Europe where they have time to think and enjoy exercise.

Another Racket

The ingenuity of the American business man in devising new fields of enterprise has been aped by another class of "business men" whose tactics and purposes are far from honorable. They are the credit fraudsters whose crime is doubly great, because they endanger the reputations of honest merchants as well as the investments of honest wholesalers.

Their organization is far-reaching and the bargain-
seeking buyer may unconsciously encourage their corrupt practices by his patronage. In their ranks are found many clever lawyers whose function it is to legalize the appearance of the proceedings and to furnish points of contact between the defrauder and the accomplice.

Briefly, the scheme depends on obtaining credit from wholesalers by a display of bank credit intended to convince the skeptic that the business is on the level. Goods are bought in quantities, but are disposed of secretly to the "fence" whose distribution systems are well worked out and whose trade is often derived from bargain seekers. At the logical moment, the merchant either declares bankruptcy or disappears, leaving the creditors to hold the bag. The scheme although always based on the gullibility of the creditor has been worked out in various forms to meet different occasions.

Dealers have banded together to combat this practice and have checked it rather effectively by interchange of credit information and through the National Association of Credit Men which, during the four years of its operation has made a record of 2,493 cases, 1,481
indictments and 632 convictions. Through their activities there has been a 12 per cent decrease in fraudulent bankruptcies in the last two years.

The part which the public can play in the apprehension of these unscrupulous operators is an important
one. The individual who receives the stolen goods must dispose of them. The public is his market. To make his proposition attractive he undersells the legitimate merchant and the public, anxious to pick up a bargain, may patronize the thief without stopping to think of the consequences of such practices. The legitimate merchant takes the risks and he should be protected.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 6.—In the last few years picturesque ship models have enjoyed a tremendous vogue as house decorations and quite an industry has grown up to supply the demand. Many models are made in this country and very large numbers are imported from Germany. And all the time the National Museum at Washington has been possessed of the largest and finest collection of ship models in the United States. These models do not represent a fad in interior decoration. They are on view for educational purposes but nevertheless they are of a beauty and excellence which would stimulate envy in any collector. Some of the models have been at the Museum for many years
but it is not a dead collection. It grows constantly.

The purpose of the museum collection is to trace the history of water craft of all the world with, of course, special attention paid to the United States. Study of these miniature boats reveals how man has solved the problem of navigation.

Rudy Kipling in his First Chantey tells lyrically the story of the first sailing vessel. It is the tale of how an eloquent prehistoric fan and woman, pursued of the woman's tribe, leaped upon a log floating in a river. The woman held out the fur covering she was wearing and it caught the wind. The log with them upon it was propelled beyond the range of the thrown axes of the tribe.
When they returned to the shore the man and woman were hailed as gods.

Starting, then, from such a point—the most primitive raft the museum models trace the advance of the art of navigation down through the centuries.

The collection necessarily traces the course of American history. There is an excellent model of the type of viking ship in which the Norseman crossed the Atlantic to discover America long before Columbus' day.
It is a graceful vessel, long and lean, with high curved prow, with spreading sail and shields ranged along its gunwales.

Then is shown the type of Spanish caravel in which Columbus crossed a few centuries later. This is the type of ship model most in demand for house decoration.
Closely akin to the Spanish caravel is the model of the type of vessel used by the Cabots, Frohisher, Drake, Raleigh, and other great English navigators who ploughed
the Spanish Main and pointed the way to the colonization of North America.

The ships of that period were of great dignity in appearance. They were high pooped, with richly carved figureheads, rails, and other woodwork. Few mariners would want to risk an Atlantic crossing in ships of their size and unworldliness today. Besides modern ships they were but chips bobbing about precariously on the waves.

The next most important stage of development shows
the whaler. In the early days of European colonization on this continent whaling was almost the principal industry and ships were designed especially for the work.
The models on exhibition show staunch but also able vessels.

The merchant fleet was growing in these years and the colonies were rising as a maritime people. Models of full rigged merchantmen are shown in all their glory.
A full rigged merchantman is a tall ship with towering masts and vast clouds of canvas. The merchantman is square rigged and carries 49 sails.

Then follow the models of the clippers, the fleet craft which did so much to build up American prestige on the seas, the ships which made the China run in half the time of British competitors and which took the Fortyniners 'round the Horn to the California gold fields.

These ships crossed the Atlantic to England in eleven days and, although solely dependent on the wind for propulsion, were so cleverly navigated that, save for unusual calms, they maintained schedules with almost the same precision as do ocean liners today. The calm alone was their enemy for they feared no storm.

The clipper ship was schooner rigged, a three master and so long and narrow that when John Griffiths launched the first one of this design at New York old mariners fully expected to see the craft turn over and sink as soon as it left the ways. The clipper was the first departure from the tublike ships of the old galleon type.

The clipper models at the museum are works of art showing the infinite grace of line and form and set of canvas which the originals possessed to the envy of mariners of all other nations.

Questions And Answers

By Frederic J. Haskin.

Q. How many people are employed in the building trade in this country? O. R. E.

A. More than a million and a half people are employed in the building trades and this figure does not include the hundreds of thousands of other people engaged in the manufacture of building materials, home furnishings and equipment used in homes, those people engaged in the transportation of building materials by railway and truck, the coal companies who deliver fuel
to the large manufacturers, and many others directly and indirectly dependent for their wages on conditions
in the construction field.

Q. Has Russia many newspapers? M. P.

A. Soviet Russia is said to have 556 newspapers, with a total circulation of 7,684,000. Moscow has 48 papers with a circulation over 4,000,000.

Q. Why is Rigi famous? H. E. R.

A. From the Swiss mountain so-named, a view of 300 miles in every direction is seen from the top. Rigi is about eight miles from Lucerne.

Q. How long did Ambassador Herrick survive his friend, Marshal Foch? G. L.

A. But eleven days elapsed. Marshal Foch died on March 20 and Ambassador Herrick on March 31, 1929.

Q. When did the censorship of publications begin?
P. P.

A. Probably in 1503 when the Venetian senate charged Musurus, "the greatest scholar of the age," with the task of exercising a censorship over all Greek books printed in Venice with reference particularly to the suppression of anything inimical to the Roman church.

Q. Is it deleterious to the health of a growing family
if the housewife shuts out the sunlight by always keeping the blinds closed? J. G.

A. The United States Public Health Service says that sunlight is essential to proper cleanliness.

Q. Why isn't a picture of President Harding hung in the White House? J. W.

A. Congress has not yet decided upon the official portrait of President Harding. It will be added to the collection when ready. President Wilson's portrait has been hung this past winter.

Q. When was the first book catalogue issued? E. M.

A. In 1498 Aldus of Venice printed on a folio sheet
the description, titles, and prices of his publications.

Ritzy Rosalie

As Rosalie's fancy flits from colture to coiffure we catch a glimpse of a distinctly new method of dressing
the nape of the neck, the neckline being the center of attention in the world of hair arrangement at the present time. The back hair is brushed up and curls over in a cluster of ringlets, in contrast to the straightly brushed hair above, which comes sharply back from the forehead. There are several variations worth speaking of: the well-dressed neckline, but the straightly brushed upper hair stays throughout. One method calls for rather large loose curls at the back of the head, a bit above the nape of the neck. The curls continue around to the front, barely covering the tips of the ears. Then another covers the back of the head with small snailshell curls, worn as close as possible to the head, with the lowest of the curls forming a scalloped outline across the back of the head. The sausage roll mode remains a favorite, and is, as
are the other styles, knots, figure eights used in this neckline glorifying trend
extremely thin.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, June 6.—The pawn
shop is making desperate efforts to shake off its aura of seedy despair—
the appearance of trafficking in human woe. Save in the slums, it no longer displays the three gilded balls,
so long the traditional symbol of its quick financial aid.

It is only along the Bowery and down-at-heel side streets one may see
the old time hockshop with its shylock in skull cap exacting the final penny. The hockshop has become a "loan service bureau," and this financial plan and that Philanthropic bankers providing money at easy rates sounded the doom.

There are still a few of those places
where bells ring over doors to guide unsteady feet at night and where windows feature such depressing un-redeemed pledges as wedding rings, baby carriages and invalid chairs. Yet these are patronized chiefly by chronic drifters and petty thieves.

Uptown, many of the new pawn shops have gone modernistic. They lodge high in skyscrapers and are distinguished by a single gilded word on the door: "Loans." The up-to-date pawn broker believes many respectable and honest people frequently need cash but do not want acquaintances to know it.

In the high class pawnshop these days there are no booths where the unfortunate go to have their pledges appraised. There are no windows painted black to screen off views of passers-by. The customer is waited upon as he is in the well regulated jewelry store.

His pledged article is taken to a room in the rear. There is nothing about the establishment to indicate its brokerage aspect. There are counters of jewelry and windows, are modestly decorated, in contrast to the old jinkle-jumble of plainly priced pledges. Indeed, few realize such places are pawn shops.

The most famous of the pawn-brokers perhaps are the Simpsons, who have establishments in every part of town. They are of English blood, and five generations have been in the business. The average pawn rate is about 18 per cent a year,
but the new movement is to make it
a straight one per cent a month.

On Park row is—or at least was a few weeks ago—a pawnshop whose windows are unbarred, save when closed. Its protection is a gentleman with a protruding jaw who to all appearances conducts a news and fruit stand at the side of the entrance. He has permission to carry two guns and can shoot from both hips. An alarm buzzer signal system is always in readiness. He stopped three robbers on the wing, and the place was never molested again.

Chicago's most famous gangster recently approached New York's most expensive publicity expert to exploit him. The offer of $75,000 a year was turned down. It was the gangster's idea to throw a smoke screen about his underworld connections by playing a society role in Florida and in New York. And from what is going on in society he might make the rifle at that.

And a bootlegger is having a $250-000 mausoleum built for him in one of the New York cemeteries. A rival, hearing of the splurge, is conferring with a mortuary architect to show the upstart a real mausoleum. With things as they are, they may need them any time.

An old army officer writes a complaining letter to the press over his come a Major, what does it amount to?'"

Well, for one thing you may have a chutney sauce named for you.

My automobile is frequently ordered from the curb of a midtown hotel but a low-numbered car owned by a friend of the Mayor often remains there all day long. Heigh ho, so it goes. Anyway it is not quite Russia.

He's a card that way. Always jok-

Sorry, but that's my ukulele lesson

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

You cannot imagine that a stream flowing a long distance through field and forest could do otherwise than pick up leaves and twigs, bits of plants, all sorts of rubbish. More than this, it dissolves from the soil tiny particles of this mineral and that. It picks up traces of every soluble substance.

The blood stream does the same thing. As it flows through the body it dissolves this and that material. It takes up many elements, really waste substances, no longer of value to the tissues. Some of these are chemical acids and they may combine in the blood to form new substances.

It is not well to have the blood charged with acids which are not useful and which, indeed, may become harmful. To get rid of all such material, Nature planned the kidneys.
These organs, two in number, have an important, a vital function to perform. It is their duty to filter out of the blood this waste material.

In reality the kidney is a wonderful filter, or rather a bundle of microscopic filters. They are tiny tubes, each about an inch long, to take the ashes and clinker away from the furnaces.

It is amazing how many of these little tubes there are—about four million, equally divided between the kidneys. It is said that if they were straightened out and placed end to end, they would make a pipe line fully seventy-five miles long!

Perhaps it is impossible even to approximate the quantity of solid material taken out of the body by these filters. It is estimated that an ounce
a day, or nearly a ton in a long lifetime.

Not all the material we take with our food is actually used by the body.
Some of it is unsuitable and is rejected as fecal matter. More of it is made use of and, becoming worthless,
is thrown into the blood stream.

You can see that the blood serves a double purpose—it carried nourishment to the body and also disposes of the wastes. A river may carry coal barges to supply a great factory with fuel. Likewise, it carries sewage. The arrangement is not quite so simple as this, but there is no occasion to go into a lot of detail.

The blood must be kept pure. It must be cleansed of the waste in order that it may be free to convey to the eager cells the food required for their nourishment and the energy producing substances to carry on their work.

The most important of the waste substances is known as urea. This is carried away with the urine unless something interferes with the kidney function. In that event the urea accumulates in the blood, producing the condition known as "uremia." There may be convulsions and other serious symptoms, the effects of general poisoning caused by the retained urea.

You can see how important it really is to have the kidneys work normally. So long as they do, there is no trouble about having the poisons due to tissue changes properly expelled
from the body.

Atom Disruptors Disrupted.
One might build up a good-sized library of pseudo scientific prophecy of the strangest things about to happen in the world of physics, as soon as the scientists should succeed in "disrupting the atom." The very fact that the atom holds together so tenaciously has been taken as indicating that if once it could be made to "let go," its component electrons would separate with a force which would dwarf all other sources of power, and revolutionize all our industrial processes.

That has been one phase of this riot of speculation and prophecy—
the most popular, because it would give man a mastery beyond the wildest dreams of the past. There was another phase, however, which opened up a prospect not so alluring; if one atom could be made to "explode," the process might prove to be contagious
—its neighbor atom would follow suit,
and the whole world, if not the universe itself, might go off in one grand

Scene from "The Glad Rag Doll," starring beautiful Dolores Costello, showing at the American, starting Monday.

SOUTHLAND STORY WINS PLAUDITS

"Hearts in Dixie," which now is showing at the American theater, has won the most glowing praise from every theater in which it has been shown.

This Fox Movietone all-talking production is unique from many standpoints. It tells a story of the Southland, just after the Civil war; it has pathos, yet is fraught with humor, and besides its actors it has more than two hundred singers, dancers and musical comedy stars recruited from among the best in the field.

Among the entertainers is the Bill-brew chorus of mixed voices which render two score or so spirituals and folk songs that come from the screen in marvelous fashion. The chorus has a wide radio reputation.

Directed by Paul Sloane, "Hearts in Dixie" is amusement of the highest order.

CHANEY PICTURE STATE FEATURE

The strident Oriental call that spurred several hundred Chinese actors to action in "Where East is East," Lon Chaney's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle which will open at the State theater today as a sound synchronized film, means, when translated into English, "Camera." Or, to be more literal, it means "The devil machines are about to start working," according to Tom Gubbins, interpreter for the Chinese players in this new vivid mystery drama of the jungles of Siam.

Hundreds of Orientals appear as extras in those sequences in the picture which depict a native village on the banks of a jungle river.

Chaney, Lupe Velez, Estelle Taylor, Lloyd Hughes and Mrs. Wong Wing appear in the big production which was directed by Tod Browning from

LOVE, LOYALTY CLASH ON SCREEN

Conflict between love and loyalty never was more emphatic nor more dramatic than in "True Heaven," Fox Film which comes to the Ceramic theater today for an engagement of three days.

Based on a magazine story by C. E. Montague and directed by James Tilling, "True Heaven" tells of a young British officer, played by George O'Brien of "Sunrise" fame, and a beautiful but mysterious girl, "Judith," played by Lois Morgan.

They meet, in a strange way, back of the British lines, and romance develops. Then they are separated to meet again within enemy lines, when the young officer is trapped and it is the girl who is confronted with the problem of either giving him up to be shot as a spy or free him. It is love for him or loyalty to her country. Her great decision is drama of a superlative order.

The supporting cast includes Philip Small, Donald MacKenzie, Duke Martin, Hedwig Reicher and Will Stanton.

BUILD HANGAR

Airman Will Also Keep Own Plane at Airport.

Three-passenger Travelair plane, which will be used for instruction purposes at the School of Aviation at the Chamber of Commerce airport in Madison township, will arrive here probably Saturday.

Roger G. Eells, chief pilot, is now at the Travelair factory at Wichita, Kansas. He expects to hop from there today.

Work is progressing on the airplane hangar at the field. The building, which will house four planes, will include a work shop and class room.

KITCHEN NOW COLORFUL ROOM

The kitchen has not escaped the recent color invasion of the American home. In fact, the kitchen promises to become the most colorful room in the house.

Where a few years ago there were only the neutral shades of white, buff and gray, the kitchen now glories in vivid colors, such as deep blue, orange, Chinese yellow and jade green.

Color in the breakfast alcove came first. Kitchen cabinets trimmed with Mandarin red and other bright colors quickly followed. The washing machine and the kitchen range did not escape. The color vogue has reached the humblest of kitchen equipment. Pots and pans carry out the favorite color scheme of the housewife.

Housefurnishing sales of kitchen equipment feature appropriate color combinations. Colored handles are selling kitchen knives and spoons. Broom handles, canisters, trays, handles on the percolator, and even the garbage cans contribute to the color scheme.

"The popularity of the color vogue can be attributed to a large extent to the Duco finishes," said Ira Bur-bick, of the Watson Hardware company, local dealer in du Pont paints and Duco.

BETWEEN YOU AND ME

BY JOAN

We saw some garden furniture at GILVIE'S that certainly is delightfully in keeping with a background of trees and flowers. Those gay chairs that fold are a practical luxury, for they can be moved from place to place with the sun or shade as you wish. Then there is a wide variety of cool, comfortable pieces to make the porch more inviting... any number of happy choices for care-free hours in the air and sunshine this summer. With everyone following the sun-tan mode, garden and porch furniture finds new importance.

Summer needs many interesting easily-laundered frocks. In order to keep cool constantly besides appearing dainty. This is not difficult for your personal budget, if you'll heed the trail of the wise shopper who hastens to LEMMER'S. You will find inexpensive little sports frocks with the unmistakable tang of fashion-wise design... lovely afternoon dresses and a myriad of summer evening ensembles. No matter how often you visit Lemmer's you'll find a constantly changing selection of costumes for every type and for every occasion.

It isn't a question of where to buy sport shoes—it's which pair or pairs shall one choose at BENDHEIM'S. You'll agree with me, all you who have bought shoes there lately that they have an unrivalled display of ultra smart sport shoes. You'll find it an easy task to match your costumes as there are any number of color-combinations, from which to choose.

To be honest—I can't guarantee that one box of face powder will give you a complexion like that of the attractive Colleen Moore, by whose name it is known but I do believe we'd be taking steps in that direction. It is a fine, even-textured powder and it has the most delightful fragrance. When you see the gay little box of Colleen Moore powder, accompanied by its oval compact (a regular $1.75 value for 58 cents at Car-nahan's Drug Store) you'll do exactly as I did... buy one.

When driving on a muddy highway out in the country the car is bound to get dirty and if we try to avoid it by driving with snail-like speed some fellow whizzing past, splashing mud all over the car and if the windows are open the occupants get the benefit of a few mud pies. It isn't nearly as embarrassing though if it happens at a time when Grease Palace isn't too busy to clean and wash it before all the friends and neighbors see us. Bad enough to have strangers staring disdainfully at us! Grease Palace in an emergency like this.

We were told by a reader who lives in a neighboring state. Let me use her own words. "A friend whom I hadn't seen for years found occasion to be in the town for just a few hours. I remembered reading about The Traveler's Dining Room... the delightful meals they serve, etc., and as I had to meet my friend in East Liverpool I called the hotel and made arrangements for a dinner for five of us. We were more than pleased... we were delighted with both service and food." This is good enough to be passed along.

If you've worked hard all winter, you're certainly entitled to a vacation and if you are taking a vacation you'll be doing some traveling... which brings us to the subject of luggage. You really need it. "Member what you said last year? 'I'll never go any place again if I have to chaperone that shabby trunk and suitcase.' There's no reason under the sun why you should when you can buy stylish, serviceable luggage as reasonably priced as it is at The Frank Crook Co. They have every traveling accessory imaginable in a range of sizes.—Adv.

Your mechanic will tell you...
"Use an oil that won't break down"

You have it in NEW SOHIO MOTOR OIL
... free from harmful wax

ADVANCED NEW PROCESS REMOVES HARMFUL WAX AT 40° BELOW ZERO

Most manufacturers of good oils now de-wax by centrifugal action, using the principle of the farm cream separator. But the method used in making Sohio Motor Oil performs this vital operation at 40° below zero. The harmful wax is thus completely crystallized and thrown out; what remains is all-lubricant 100% Paraffin base oil—New Sohio Motor Oil. Expect these results:

- 1 Little or no carbon
- 2 Flexible viscosity—perfect lubrication at all temperatures
- 3 Perfect piston seal—full power, least danger of oil dilution

New Sohio Motor Oil is sold everywhere in Ohio. More than 700 Red-White-and-Blue Standard service stations and thousands of dealers—in crowded cities or at lonely, country cross-roads, are ready to serve you with this new, finer oil free from harmful wax.

A QUART

YOUR mechanic knows the importance of correct lubrication. Listen to his advice. He'll tell you, among other things, to be sure to use an oil that won't break down. Do you know what that means?

When an oil becomes thin and stringy under today's high driving temperatures; when it fails to make a perfect seal between piston and cylinder wall, and so allows unused gasoline to trickle through and dilute the oil in the crankcase; when it ruptures under high bearing pressures—then an oil is said to "break down."

The presence of harmful wax in motor oil increases this tendency to "break down." Harmful wax has no lubricating value; thins out in heat, gums up in cold. It causes friction within the oil, and because it "lumps," prevents oil from flowing freely and evenly and forming perfect piston seal. Harmful wax leaves a gummy deposit in combustion chambers—a ready base for carbon.

Now comes New Sohio Motor Oil—with a 100% Paraffin base oil—plus freedom from harmful wax. With every trace of harmful wax removed, New Sohio Motor Oil is all lubricant. It maintains its rich, oily body at all temperatures—flows freely and evenly in heat or cold. New Sohio's tough, strong body resists dilution and affords perfect piston seal; it reduces the carbon nuisance and allows full development of power.

Have your crankcase drained today—refill with New Sohio Motor Oil—the oil that's free from harmful wax. Use the grade recommended for your car in the folder that's free wherever New Sohio Motor Oil is sold.

MOTHER-IN-LAW KILLER FACES DEATH CHAIR

Joseph Locke, 50, Convicted by Jury at Portsmouth.
AWAITS SENTENCE
Plea of Transitory Insanity Disregarded
By Jurors.

PORTSMOUTH, O., June 6.—(INS)—A 50-year-old man who shot and killed the mother of his 17-year-old bride, his seventh wife, today had been found guilty of that crime and is in jail here awaiting imposition of the mandatory sentence of death in the electric chair.

In returning its verdict after deliberating more than four hours, the jury found the aged husband of the young wife guilty of first degree murder, without recommendation for mercy.

Ohio law decrees that a death sentence is mandatory when a jury returns that verdict.

The man, who is awaiting the sentence to "ride the thunder-bolt into eternity's oblivion," is Joseph Locke, 50.

He was convicted of slaying Mrs. Mary Galloway, the mother of his wife Lucy. The jury disregarded the man's plea for transitory insanity, which was based on his belief that a man is not entirely sane when he is in "love."

FORD GETS FIRST EDISON STAMP

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 6.—(INS)—Henry Ford, the multi-millionaire motor manufacturer, purchased the first Edison jubilee stamp sold at the national electric light convention here today, but he was forced to borrow two cents to do it.

The stamps were placed on sale in a special booth, by arrangement with the post office department, and Mr. Ford was the first person to appear before it when it was opened. Unfortunately the clerk was unable to change a large bill, the only money the automobile king had in his possession.

Ford glanced hurriedly about him for someone to help him out of his dilemma whereupon J. F. Quinlan, executive director of the golden jubilee of light, which is being held in conjunction with the electrical convention, stepped forward with necessary two cents.

Ford assured Quinlan that he would repay the loan promptly.

BROKER CALLED IN GIRL'S DEATH

CHICAGO, June 6.—(INS)—Edwin Papp, wealthy broker, was summoned today before a coroner's jury investigating the suicide of Miss Barbara Cole, an actress. She killed herself last night by leaping from a window of her luxurious apartment on the twelfth floor of a building in the North Side "gold coast" district.

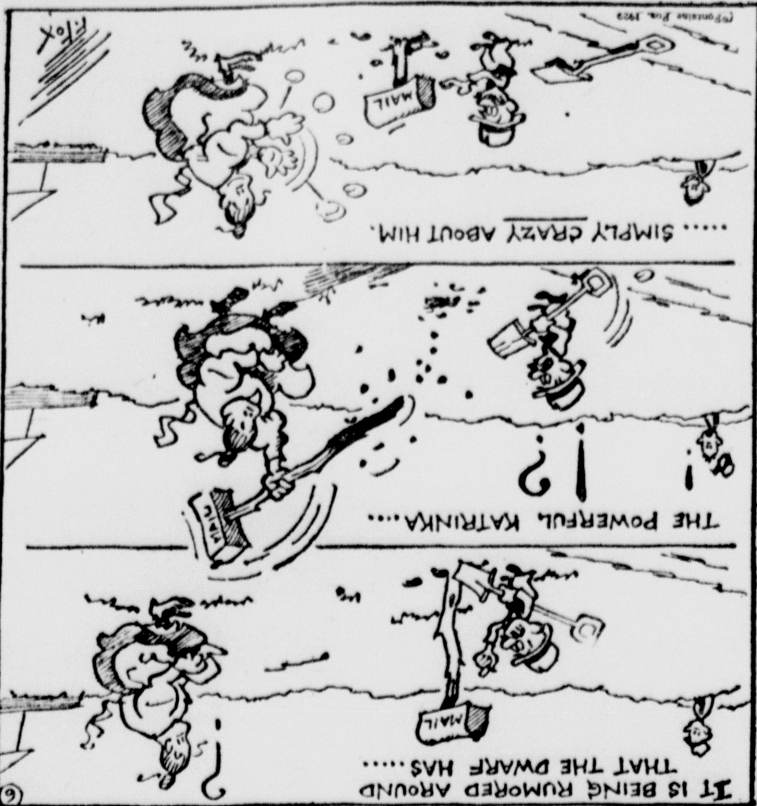

"I love Ed Page," was penned on the fly leaf of her diary, found beside a glass containing the dregs of a highball.

Page admitted there had been a "romance" and that they had quarreled.

ARNOLD APPEAL MAIL ROBBERY CASE CALLED LOOT $323,000

New Trials Asked on Orville Kidnaping Charge.

Mansfield Man Pleads Guilty to Stealing Pouch.

WOOSTER, O., June 6.—(INS)—The appeal on behalf of Elias and Arthur Arnold, 63-year-old father and 17-year-old son, who are now serving terms in Ohio penal institutions for complicity in the kidnaping of Melvin Horst, 4, missing Orville boy, will be heard here tomorrow, it was ascertained today.

Arguments for a new trial for the incarcerated father and son will then be heard. An immediate decision is not expected.

Melvin Horst disappeared from the streets of Orville on the night of December 27, last, and has not been heard from or seen since, his disappearance remaining a mystery.

Elias and Arthur were charged with the "child stealing," and were convicted at a subsequent trial. The father was sentenced to the Ohio state penitentiary and the son was committed to the Mansfield reformatory for an indefinite term.

WOMAN, ILL, CUTS HER OWN THROAT

CIRCLEVILLE, O., June 6.—(INS)—Using an old-fashioned straight razor, Mrs. Dorothy Hinson, 47, today slashed her own throat from ear to ear after drinking a dose of poison.

She cut into her throat five times, the body showed, and the thrusts nearly decapitated her.

Her husband, Frank Hinson, 46, a county farmer, and two children were eating breakfast when the woman had cooked for them when Mrs. Hinson killed herself.

She had been in ill health, members of the family declared.

MAN IS TRAPPED IN MINE CAVE-IN

SUTTER CREEK, Calif., June 6.—(INS)—Three shifts of men were working frantically today to rescue C. E. Milovich, imprisoned 700 feet below the surface in the Central Eureka mine. He has been trapped since Tuesday night, when a mine shaft caved in.

Two other miners escaped. One mined dodged the hurtling cave-in and managed to get to the top to sound a warning. The second was saved several hours after the accident when a shift boss climbed the shaft from the bottom and rescued him.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

By W. S. Cousins.
I. N. S. Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Most of the stock market's action in the first hour today was furnished by professionals on the floor. The pools dressed up a few of the specialties and placed them in the center of the stage in the hope of attracting a "following," and the bulls pressed hard against the bears who over-reached themselves in short selling in yesterday's swift closing decline.

The big pow-wow in Washington yesterday between reserve board heads and local reserve bank directors is believed to have cleared up several points with respect to money matters and results may or may not be shown today in the raising of the New York bank's rediscount rate.

Fleishmann was taken in hand at the outset, a 3-point jump to $1 accompanying the active trading in that stock. Radio Keith Orpheum, at the head of the low-price amusement shares, moved up 3 points to 33 1/2, a rapid turnover. A few of the public utility stocks sold higher, but the industrials as a whole were unable to stem the tide of selling without concessions of a point or so from yesterday's final prices.

The oils, rails, coppers, steels and electrical manufacturing stocks were dull and quiet in the early trading with narrow price changes. Call money was unchanged at 7 per cent and both the grain and the cotton markets were slightly reactionary.

ANTI-SMITH MEN BLOCK HARMONY

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(INS)—The harmony which the Democrats have been talking about—and some of them praying for—since the great November split is proving a very elusive bird.

Not only has Bishop James Cannon, Jr., gone on the warpath in Virginia again, with a plea to the anti-Smith bolters to stand firm and name their own candidate for governor, but the widely advertised "harmony dinner" to be given here next Monday night in honor of Joseph P. Kamp, of Kansas, is being quietly—and in some cases noisily—cut by the anti-Smith southerners in congress.

Adjudged Insane. ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., June 6.—

(INS)—Leonidas Millhoan, who advertised a free banquet in the public square at Barnesville, near here, last night, for the stockholders of the Idle Bethesda Clay Products company, was adjudged insane in a court ruling here.

Scores of stockholders waited for Millhoan's appearance, before learning the promoter had been declared "crazy."

Widows Cash Tickets

sweepstakes which are run each year on this class of the British turf.

Hundred Win Prizes.

The principal sweepstakes are the Calcutta sweep, with three prizes totaling more than $650,000 each, the London Stock Exchange sweep, with two first prizes of $625,000 each, and the Baltic, in which first money totaled nearly half a million dollars.

Millions of persons bought tickets in these three sweepstakes, and a hundred or so will draw out enough money to make them rich and independent forever.

One of the biggest sweepstake winners is Julian Cahn, well known Nottinghamshire cricketer, who paid $2,500 for a half share in the Stock Exchange ticket on Trigo, and as a consequence profits by more than $300,000.

An aunt of Cahn, from whom he purchased the half interest, also will receive $300,000, she is a widow, and another woman in her same station, Mrs. Katherine McGrath, of Dublin, mother of four children, will profit by almost $125,000 for her good fortune in holding a Trigo ticket in the Baltic sweep.

Syndicate Loses $250,000.

The names of all the winners have not yet been received, but those which are known give eloquent proof of how Lady Luck can lift a person out of humdrum existence into a position of totally unexpected wealth and affluence.

A clerk in a business office in Oudstroom, South Africa, drew Trigo's Calcutta sweepstake ticket, and unlike his partner with all or a portion of it, he will receive almost three-quarters of a million dollars. G. L. Brill, a young clothing merchant of Leeds, England, and a British army officer stationed at Rajputhana, India, each drew Calcutta tickets on Walter Gay, which (finished second, and will make about $225,000 apiece.

The holders of the Exchange sweep ticket on Brien, which ran third, is owned by James Mackee, employed in the accounts department of the Commercial Cable company here. In a few days he will receive a check for $160,000.

But there were some who were not so lucky. One syndicate of wealthy men spent something like $250,000 in buying up sweepstake tickets, and failed to get one winner.

HOOVER TIGHTENS DRY LAW WORK

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(INS)—President Hoover moved today to tighten up federal enforcement of prohibition.

In a special message to congress, he recommended appointment of a joint congressional committee which would be charged with making an immediate study of "the reorganization and concentration of responsibility in administration of the federal bureaus connected with prohibition enforcement."

LINK. Let us hope it will be well fortified, especially from the air. Outside of the air no fortifications are of importance. Who would have believed that would ever be possible when Gibraltar, Metz and the narrow strip of water at Constantinople were so important to the world's peace?

THE good and wise Bishop Acheson, of Connecticut, dignitary of the Protestant Episcopal church, was grieved when told that women of Christ's Church parish Bethlehem, Conn., do not dance and object to others dancing.

The bishop said to them, using language less colloquial, "Go on, dance your heads off. It is the best way to get thin."

THAT recalls the advice of the good French Bishop Fenelon, of Cambrai.

A young priest had told his parishioners to observe the Sabbath and not dance or drink on that day.

Bishop Fenelon wrote to him: "I want you to observe the Sabbath and set a good example, but let the poor peasants dance, drink and forget their misery."

VESUVIUS continues pouring out lava, compelling inhabitants of the towns of Barra to leave their homes, creating panic in many towns. The lava stream is poured into the fearsome "Valley of Hell."

BUENOS AIRES sends news of great activity in the volcano of Nevado.

Human beings may thank their stars that these and other volcanoes exist. They are to the earth what a safety valve is to a steam engine.

THOSE that deplore the tendencies of "modern youth," late dances, short dresses, wild dances, cocktails, and the rest, will be interested in an investigation and report by Chicago's Episcopal church.

YOUNG people are wild says the report, but the blame rests with the parents. Dr. Young, head of the Howe School, of Indiana, says he is more worried about the parents than about children.

It is a fact that bootleggers' customers are the parents. Children despise that law, and parents set them the example.

A GENTLEMAN double-locked his stable door after the horse was stolen.

Wheat drops to 94 cents a bushel, the farmer is compelled to sell, and Congress will rush a $500,000,000 fund for farm relief.

It isn't anybody's fault, just "supply and demand," or something like that. But it always seems hard for the farmer to get a good price for his product and easy to get a good price when he has sold it and somebody else has it.

UNCLE SAM increased his gold supply in the last five months by many millions.

We didn't need it, but for superstitious financial reasons it is a comfort to have it.

Wheat went up five cents a bushel. Ask the sold-out farmers what they think of that.

TWO MEN DROWN IN RESCUE MOVE

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 6.—(INS)—Two pipe line workers lost their lives at a pipe line of hole 30 miles north of here attempting to rescue two fellow workers from the water-filled pit, it was learned here today.

Tillman Easley and Art Wilson drowned when they were overcome by gas fumes and toppled into the pit while endeavoring to rescue Floyd Clifton and Ray Faust from the pit last night.

Clifton and Faust are in a critical condition at a local hospital.

100 Nabbed in "Book-Making" Raids.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 6.—(INS)—Approximately 100 persons were in police custody here today, having been arrested in three raids on alleged "book-making" establishments yesterday. The county grand jury is reported to be investigating the "betting" situation here.

Iron Workers' Strike Settled.

CHICAGO, June 6.—(INS)—The structural iron workers' strike, which has tied up more than $200,000,000 in building, was settled here this afternoon.

EAGLES CAPTURE CRIBBAGE MATCH

Third and deciding cribbage match between representative teams of Fraternal Order of Eagles and the Loyal Order of Moose, at the Eagles' temple, Broadway, last night, was captured by the former, 28 to 22.

Amrose Hancock was in charge of the winning team, while Proctor Rudolph was captain of the Moose. William Woods and Joseph Schaffer were the principal players for the Eagles, while William Carpen and Adrian Ankrim starred for the Moose.

The Moose lodge members will be hosts to the winners at an early date. A committee consisting of William H. Webb, Robert Brown and Alan McGonigal served a lunch at the conclusion of the cribbage match.

FOREST FIRE SWEEPS MANITOBA

THE PAS, Manitoba, June 6.—(INS)—Cranberry portage was virtually destroyed today in the path of a fierce forest fire which has been raging for many hours in northern Manitoba.

The blaze, sweeping many acres of valuable timberland, has not been checked so far, advises stated.

Lack of rain has made timber exceptionally dry, making the task of fire fighters harder.

No lives have been lost.

HEATH IS NAMED CABINET AIDE

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(INS)—President Hoover has decided to appoint F. K. Heath of Grand Rapids, Mich., to be assistant secretary of the treasury, replacing Carl T. Schuman of St. Paul, resigned, it was announced today.

Former Dry Agent Goes to Prison.

CLEVELAND, June 6.—(INS)—Under sentence to 18 months in Atlanta federal penitentiary, Lewis Wilcox, former state dry agent, was enroute to that institution today, eager, he said, "to get it over as soon as possible."

Wilcox was sentenced by Federal Judge S. H. West two weeks ago on charges of impersonating a federal officer. He filed an appeal and was at liberty under $5,000 bail, pending outcome of the motion.

OCEAN PLANES HIT BY WAVES

Green Flash and Yellow Bird in Danger Path.

OLD ORCHARD BEACH, Me., June 6.—(INS)—Mechanics of the Green Flash and the Yellow Bird were to examine both monoplanes this morning to determine whether the trans-Atlantic planes were damaged by the waves which threatened to engulf them last night on the sands of Old Orchard Beach. The undercarriage of both planes was partly submerged by an unusually high tide which came up without warning.

The Old Orchard fire alarm was sounded when the danger was discovered and public-spirited citizens, donning rubber boots, rushed to the hangar and pulled the planes from their precarious position on the beach.

Even if the planes were uninjured by the water, the start of the long flight to Paris and Rome cannot be made before tomorrow morning at the earliest. A strong west wind was blowing yesterday and the weather was still unfavorable today.

Roger O. Williams and Lewis A. Yancey planned to make another test flight today, however, on completion of the installation of a new bank and turn indicator and an ice detector on the instrument board of their monoplane.

BRITISH EMBASSY ON WATER WAGON

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(INS)—The British embassy here is going on the wagon.

A real diplomatic sensation was created today when it became known that Sir Esme Howard, the courtly dean of the corps, has informed members of his staff that he will sign no more requests to the state department for permission to import liquors. This means that when present stocks are exhausted—which probably will be some time yet—the numerous members of the British embassy staff will have to rely on their foreign colleagues for those "spots of Scotch" or else patronize the bootleggers of their American friends.

"My! you look lovely to-night"

SHE knew the compliment to be true—for the last pimple had vanished.

If you are one of the embarrassed—and men are not exceptions—with skin blemishes that linger, and sometimes leave scars, you must realize that the logical cause may come from the blood.

A clear, smooth, velvety skin bespeaks loveliness. Men admire it. Women praise and secretly envy. Hope, joy, happiness, and even love, may depend on the possession of a clear, unblemished skin.

On the other hand—skin eruptions are outward evidences of the condition within. Authorities

Tragedy Frustrates Fame For Ceramic City As Birthplace of Airplane 49 Years Ago

J. H. Burgess Tells Story of "Flying Dutchman."

East Liverpool, instead of Kitty Hawk, North Carolina, where Orville and Wilbur Wright made their first successful airplane flight, might have been the birthplace of the "flying machine" had tragedy not interfered.

According to J. H. Burgess, former mayor and justice of the peace, a Swede, whom he recalls only by the nickname, "the flying Dutchman," built an airplane here a year or two before the Civil war. The machine was nearing perfection when the inventor was killed, presumably by parties who sought the secrets of the invention.

According to Burgess, who came to East Liverpool in 1840 when he was but six years of age, the "flying Dutchman" located here during the late 50's. His past life seemed to be a mystery but he told friends that he had been "run out" of Germany for his views on flying. He declared that he believed that a machine could be invented in which men could fly.

Test Flight on Blakely Hill.

The stranger rented a room on the second floor of a building at Broadway and West Third street where the Martin apartment now stands, and it was in this structure that he began work on his machine.

Three men of some influence and standing in the community became interested in his project. After months of labor the machine was taken one day to what was then known as Inventor is Slain as Machine Nears Perfection.

Blakeley's hill, later known as Thompson hill. While "Uncle Jack" was not a spectator, he said that he was reliably informed afterwards that the "Dutchman" had made a flight but in landing the spring on the machine had been broken.

The inventor went to Pittsburgh on the following day and returned to East Liverpool that night with a new spring. He is said to have confided in friends that "tomorrow I am going to fly over East Liverpool."

That night the "Dutchman" worked until a late hour.

Body Found on Crossing.

The next morning a potter on his way to work found the mangled body of the inventor at the Broadway crossing. The supposition was that he had been accidentally killed by the passenger train which passed through East Liverpool at 4 o'clock in the morning. He was buried in the cemetery at the west end of Fifth street near the City hospital.

A few days after the funeral friends, suspecting foul play in the inventor's death, subscribed a $100 fund with which to employ a detective to investigate. "Uncle Jack" Burgess says that Robert Hague, a Pittsburgh sleuth, was brought here and after hearing the facts asked that the body of the inventor be exhumed.

That night two laborers and the detective opened the grave. "Uncle Jack" holding a lantern for them. The casket was not raised but a portion of the lid was cut away to permit Hague to examine the head and shoulders of the victim. He discovered a bullet hole in his shoulder.

One of the three men whom Hague suspected of the killing was accused of the crime the next day as he stood in Second street. The suspect is said to have fainted. When revived he denied any knowledge of the inventor's death.

Suspect Drowned in River.

A woman who then lived in Second street reported that she had seen three men carry an object down an alley from Third street and place it on the railroad tracks at Broadway

just a few hours before the "Dutchman's" body was found. Another man said he heard a shot fired in the vicinity of Broadway during the night. The grocer who kept a store in the building where the inventor lived found his floor stained with blood which had trickled through the ceiling from the floor above.

With this evidence, the three "friends" of the "Dutchman" were arrested on murder charges and given a preliminary hearing before a justice of the peace who, Burgess says, was a relative of one of the suspects. They were discharged for lack of evidence.

One of the men, Burgess said, later was drowned in the Ohio river.

The new owners of the airplane worked vainly to assemble the machine which the "Dutchman" had taken apart the night before he died. For several years the machine was kept in the second floor room where the inventor had lived, but later it was stored in a building in Second street. The machine was destroyed when the storage house was swept by fire.

A FIVE-YEAR-OLD FORECAST MORE THAN REALIZED

JUNE

1924

"* * * the Chrysler is, in reality, the first step in the general revision of motor car design which is bound to follow its advent. * * * For it is an entirely new type of car, built on a new kind of engineering, which produces results radically different from any heretofore registered in the industry."

CHRYSLER'S INFLUENCE ON YOUR CAR

It has become an axiom of the motor car industry that much of what comes tomorrow originates in what Chrysler engineering does today.

For five years, Chrysler has been the acknowledged leader in thrilling performance. For five years, Chrysler has led the way in individuality and modern smartness of design.

Those in possession of the facts know that there is scarcely a motor car today that does not owe some improvement in its make-up to Chrysler—and has not become a better car by reason of Chrysler engineering achievement.

Emulation is a nice compliment to Chrysler leadership, of course. But the mere copying of features cannot equal the complete Chrysler results.

To you who are about to choose a new car, a natural question arises: Why not enjoy a Chrysler itself, so long as Chrysler smartness, comfort, performance and quality are the goals to which other cars are striving? Let us show you in a test of your own choosing the superiority of Chrysler to anything aspiring to compete with Chrysler.

CHRYSLER "75"—$1535 to $1795—Eight Body Styles. CHRYSLER "65"—$1040 to $1145—Six Body Styles. All prices f. o. b. factory. Chrysler dealers extend convenient time payments.

CONCRETE WILL BE POURED NEXT WEEK ON NEW ELKTON HIGHWAY

Road is Now Closed at Intersection of East Liverpool - Youngstown Road.

LISBON, O., June 6.—Unless weather prevents, concrete will be poured on the new Lisbon-Elkton-Youngstown road on June 10 by Contractor George B. Patterson of Wellsville.

This road is now closed at the intersection of the East Liverpool-Youngstown highway. Side forms will be erected within the next few days. Materials are to be trucked from Elkton, where all rail deliveries are to be made. It is expected the job will be completed within 50 working days.

Before the Elkton road is opened to traffic, construction work probably will be started on the St. Clair township-California Hollow section of the East Liverpool-Youngstown highway.

Between Lisbon and Elkton the state highway department is now maintaining a traffic-bound surfaced road. The narrow brick road in Elkton will be widened.

One-way traffic is now the rule on the Lincoln highway south of Lisbon while the roadway is being graded to conform with the grade for the new concrete bridge spanning Beaver creek. The road north of this bridge will be raised in order that the grade will be even with the tracks of the Pittsburgh, Lisbon & Western railroad.

Stop Using a Truss

Free Demonstration

Stuart's Plapao-Pads are different from the trusses, being mechanical-chemical applicators made self-adhesive purposely to keep the herbal muscle-tonic called "PLAPAO" continuously applied to the affected parts, and to minimize danger of slipping and painful friction. The fabric is soft as velvet, and being adhesive, it clings to the body, without straps, buckles or springs. Easy to apply—comfortable—Inexpensive. The epidermic absorption of the "PLAPAO" and the utilization of "plaster therapy", tend toward a natural process of recovery, after which no further use for a truss. During 23 years, thousands have successfully treated their ruptures at home, without delay from work. Awarded Gold Medal, Rome; Grand Prix, Paris; Honorable Mention, San Francisco, etc.

Stomach, Liver And Gall Troubles Soon Vanish

Five Years Systematic Disorders Conquered by Owa-Ton-Na

The fame of this fine old Indian Remedy, Owa-Ton-Na, spreads rapidly wherever it has been introduced. Already hundreds right here in East Liverpool tell of the remarkable benefits they have attained through its use. Each day the laboratory representative who is located at the Carnahan Drug Store, 114 East Sixth street, hears new stories of the good it is doing in kidney, liver, stomach and intestinal disorders, rheumatism, neuritis, nervousness and a general run down condition of health.

Many of these people have been disappointed in other medicines and remedies tried but find that Owa-Ton-Na acts differently and brings results where other methods failed. Owa-Ton-Na, original Indian formula, is made of the same ingredients that it was originally made of by the Red Man. It is now scientifically prepared so that the original ingredients may be intact when they reach your hands in order that you, too, may enjoy the benefit of this successful remedy. Another local resident who has found in Owa-Ton-Na relief after five years of suffering is Mrs. T. M. Nash, Georgetown Road, Beaver, Pa.

She says: "For the past five years, I have been in a run down condition. It just seems as though everything had gone wrong, stomach, liver and kidney disorders. I was told I had gall bladder trouble yet nothing that I did seemed to give me any relief. Food fermented and caused gas. Why, at times I had no appetite at all. Headaches and backaches made life miserable. Sometimes I just felt as though I couldn't go on."

"My bowels were always constipated, laxatives and physics just seemed to make me worse. I just got to the point where I didn't know what to do. I heard so much about Owa-Ton-Na that I felt I might as well try it. I had tried so many other things. I want to say that Owa-Ton-Na has done me more good than all the other things I took put together. Even the first bottle showed me I had found the right remedy. My bowels started to function normally, my stomach acted better, food digested properly and my appetite came back. Now I can eat anything I want without distress and food certainly tastes good. My back doesn't cause me any more trouble, my kidneys act normally, I can now go to bed and sleep all night without getting up to relieve bladder irritation. Words can hardly express the thanks I feel for Owa-Ton-Na. I wish I could personally tell every sufferer about the benefits I received from this fine old Indian Remedy."

"KONJOLA PROVED WONDERFUL" SAYS GRATEFUL LADY
The Medicine I Always Needed; the Remedy I Should Have Had in the First Place.

MRS. E. A. K'BURG.

"The very first bottle of Konjola worked wonders in my case," said Mrs. E. A. K'burg, Mendocino, Ohio. "My stomach was in a very poor condition. Even bread and butter caused gas to form. My stomach bloated, and I suffered severe pains. My breath came in gasps. Belching spells also annoyed me, and I steadily lost weight and strength."

"Results from the first bottle of Konjola were almost incredible. In two weeks my appetite and digestion was restored. Gas, bloating and belching spells disappeared. My breath comes freely, and I am fast regaining weight and strength. I feel like a different woman. Konjola surely proved to me that it is a wonderful medicine!"

Konjola is sold in East Liverpool, O., at Carnahan's drug store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

WELLSVILLE NINE TIGHTENS GRASP ON LEAGUE LEAD

Defeats Chester News, 4-2

Veteran Bill Mundy Hangs Up His Second Win.

THE veteran Bill Mundy hung up his second Inter-City league victory last night when he pitched the Wellsville Nash Motors to a 4-2 win over the Chester News nine at Smith Field, giving the visitors a pretty substantial grasp on first place at the present time.

Old Bill didn't have the same stuff on the apple he did at Wellsville last week but his mates clubbed timely behind him and he worked hard in the pinches.

The West Virginians tagged Mundy's offerings for nine blows, filling the sacks on two occasions but were unable to produce the wallop that was needed as a scoring punch.

Successive bingles and a walk jammed the paths in the third but old Bill fanned the third man and hopped out of the hole. Again, in the seventh, three singles, short raps which didn't permit much activity on the paths but which, nevertheless, put three potential runs on the bases, enough to knot the count, failed to produce the coveted markers. Two were gone at the time and the last man up grounded out to Bill who got him at first.

Johnson pitched good ball for the Chester nine and it was not entirely his fault that a quartet of Wellsville runs scumpered around the sacks.

An error at short did a lot of damage in the third and another in the fourth didn't help any.

However, the visitors drove out five hits in those two frames and were up on their toes to take advantage of enemy lapses.

After Bloor had been retired at first to start the third frame, Maley and Mundy singled successively. George Wagner lifted one to right field for the second out. Jackson then drove one at Marshall at short and it got away from him. C. Wagner singled to left to score Maley and Mundy.

Watson led off with a single in the next inning and then Desher and Bloor fanned. Bill Mundy drew a walk to fill the bases. George Wagner lifted one into short center. Parsons reeled in at shortneck speed, got the pill in his mitts but couldn't hold it and a pair of counters chased over the plate.

Pete Marshall's double in the fourth paid the way for Chester's single tally.

McKown got on as Watson dropped one at short. Watson protested the play, claiming that Marshall had interfered with the ball as he went from second to third but the claim was not allowed.

Hunselman drove one at Connors who retired McKown at second, Marshall scoring.

MIAMI TOSSERS BEAT CINCINNATI

OXFORD, O., June 6.—Miami University and Cincinnati are tied for the Buckeye conference championship today, following the decisive defeat handed to Ohio Wesleyan university by the Miami nine yesterday to the tune of 13 to 4.

Both Cincinnati and Miami have lost two games during the present season, but have won all of their other starts in the Buckeye conference.

The game yesterday was a very loosely-played affair. The Battling Bishops allowed five errors and the Big Reds had two.

KNOW THEIR BATTERS

Walter Miller

Dan MacFayden

ALL the successes in the business world say that they had to learn their jobs to gain their positions. This axiom obtains just as well in the realm of sport.

There's a couple of young pitchers who will be top-notchers if getting the dope on their jobs means a thing. Dan MacFayden and Walter Miller are the boys. Dan is being nursed along by Bill Carrigan of the Red Sox and he's beginning to show the results of his close application to the characteristics of the league batters. He blanked the Yankees and that's something a lot of oldsters would give their shirts to do.

MacFayden gets out before the game starts and talks over batters with other pitchers. His questions are right to the point and then he comes back to his own bench and talks the information over with his teammates.

Walter Miller has a book full of notes on opposing batters that would knock your eyes out. He knows every pitch that can be made in the game and what's more he knows where to put the pitch for each batter. The Cleveland pitcher got his job on sort of a kidding basis when he was put on with the Indians, but he has been so studious and is learning so much that he gradually worked his way into a regular berth. One earned run for fifty-one innings isn't bad pitching.

National Loop Owners May Limit Long Swats

Screens Proposed at Polo Grounds, Wrigley Field And Sportsman's Park, Zoning at Baker Field.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, June 6.—By fast running, some of the more agile of our earnest young men may soon be stretching their home runs into two base hits, according to the word that comes down the ventilator with the rest of the hot air today, the idea being that the orgy of home runs finally has palled upon the jaded senses of the club owners.

Anyhow, the National league is going into hiding for its summer meeting in Cincinnati tomorrow and the tip is that one of the things it proposes to do is to declare a limit on home run hitting at the Polo Grounds in New York, at Baker field in Philadelphia, at Wrigley field in Chicago and at Sportsman's park in St. Louis. Another proposal concerns the cutting of salary rolls in New York, Chicago and Pittsburgh, a movement that undoubtedly will receive the unwavering support of New York, Chicago and Pittsburgh. They are for the movement, being big men in things like that.

Officially, baseball admits neither of these proposals as being contemplated steps. The league says it is holding its meeting in Cincinnati because it wishes to generate fan enthusiasm in the town and I am sure this is an excellent idea. The people are bound to become very enthused watching a lot of club owners meet.

As for the home run proposal, I am informed that those behind it wish to place screens at the foul lines at the parks in question or else zone the stands in such a way that any ball hit into those stands less than 75 feet from the foul line will be ruled as good only for two bases. This would apply only at the Polo Grounds, Wrigley field and Sportsman's park, since Baker field merely has a blank wall in right field and would have to be zoned.

It won't apply at all, of course, unless the four clubs affected are for it. So far, I know only that Charley Stoneham and Jim Tierney, of the Giants, are not for it. They are going to Cincinnati prepared to resist the idea austerely and with marked firmness. It is their notion that the plan shouldn't be used at the Polo Grounds because the stands there sweep away from the foul line at almost an acute angle and that a 75-foot rule would be unfair to everybody.

It would, but so is the present rule which allows seven other clubs only a comparative few shots through the season at a right field line that is just a short bubble from the plate. The time is coming when they will have to alter that condition, just as some years ago they discovered how fatuous they were in allowing home runs into the lower stand and merely what you could get on drives that bounced off the coping of the upper structure.

KASEYS CAPTURE 12-FRAME TILT

The Kansas City-St. Paul game provided all of the excitement in the American association tilt yesterday. It was a real baseball thriller, one that sport writers gush about but seldom see.

The Cowboys came out of the encounter with the Saints' scaps, but it took 12 innings to do the trick. A lone run in the twelfth gave the Blues a victory.

Other games were just sand-lot affairs compared to the foregoing. Minneapolis strengthened their hold on first by knocking the pill freely about the gardens for 12 runs while the best Milwaukee could do was four tallies. Milwaukee is still in the cellar. They may climb out of it soon, but there's a few stumbling blocks in the likeness of tough games in their way.

Indianapolis took Toledo over the coals of defeat by a 6 to 5 score. Indianapolis is fourth in the pennant race and Toledo is sixth.

Louisville shut out Columbus for a 5 to 0 win. The Colonels are in the fifth driving seat and the Senators are seventh.

NEW JERSEY COP LEADS RUNNERS

Paul Simpson, Burlington, N. C., finished second in 7:13:18, and Gusto Umek, of Italy, was third in 7:2:30. Pete Gavuzzi, of England, and Sam Richman, New York, tied for fourth place in 7:34:48.

Gambling Banned At Rush Run

Jefferson County Sheriff "Calls Off all Bets."

STUEBENVILLE, O., June 6.—Dog race gambling in Jefferson county came under official ban yesterday with the announcement from Sheriff William Yost that betting at the Rush Run track will not be tolerated this year. The sheriff's decree came simultaneously with the announcement of track promoters that the annual summer meet would open June 15.

The position recently taken by Governor Cooper on betting at the West Jefferson track and the executive's pronouncement that he wanted gambling halted at all Ohio tracks and would hold county officers responsible for enforcement of the law, was the chief reason for Sheriff Yost's decision, although he admitted that he had already received several delegations of citizens who protested the resumption of gambling at Rush Run.

Cites Governor's Order.
"Governor Cooper's order is enough for me," Sheriff Yost said. "As chief executive of the state he has called upon all local authorities to stop betting at dog tracks and as sheriff of Jefferson county I am going to follow his instructions. There will be no betting at Rush Run if I can stop it and I believe I can."

Owners of the Rush Run track some weeks ago attempted to sound out Yost on his attitude toward race betting but he was noncommittal. Inasmuch as the track had operated un-molested by a previous sheriff for two summers under the mutual system of betting, the promoters did not expect active opposition this year and went ahead with their preparations for opening the track this month. The West Jefferson incident, however, served to bring dog racing into the limelight with the consequent ban ordered by the governor and the sheriff takes the governor's order as mandatory, leaving him no alternative but to enforce the law, with reference to gambling.

Promises Arrests.
Yost said today that he had conferred on the subject with Prosecutor Jesse George and that the prosecutor would lend his assistance in prosecuting promoters if they attempt to operate the track with betting.

"I haven't made any definite plan of action as yet because I want to be fair with the men who have their money invested in the dog track and give them fair warning," the sheriff declared.

"However, if they insist upon going ahead with their plans for the June meet and permit betting on races, I will be there with my deputies to place them under arrest and I will arrest them just as often as they open the betting window. The rest of the prosecution will be up to other county officials."

The sheriff said he had been requested to "lay off" the track this year in order that the group of business and professional men who have their money invested in the track be given a chance to get some of it back this year. Dog racing, introduced here two years ago, was a losing venture the opening season but did better than break even last year.

Yost takes the position that regard less of official attitude toward the track in the past, his duty is clear.

BREAKS THUMBS BUT WINS BOUT

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—Philadelphia ring fans had a new respect for the prowess of Kid Chocolate this morning when they learned that the sensational Cuban bantamweight had fought Vidal Gregorio, of Spain, at Shibe park last night despite the handicap of two broken thumbs.

Many of the 20,000 fans booed the decision awarding the verdict to Chocolate. It was not announced until several hours after the bout that "the kid" had broken both thumbs in battering the hard head of the Spaniard early in the fray.

In another ten-rounder, Billy Wallace, Cleveland lightweight, won the decision over Bruce Flowers, New Rochelle, N. Y., negro.

Learning to fight and fighting to learn!

That's Master Freddy Edwards, the youthful welterweight champ of the East Liverpool district who's invading western Pennsylvania boxing circles next Thursday night when he tackles Eddie Anderson at Junction park.

He's learning the mitt game and he's been absorbing knowledge as his opponents have been absorbing punches.

And all, he says, because he wants to learn. He wants to continue his education, to go to collich, so that he'll know his demitasses from his entrees, and can recognize a Hors de oeuvre the minute he tastes it.

"Let's step out, Freddy," invites Ray Foutts, who's piloting him now. "We've gotta meet some of these good guys now and boost our rep. You can comb your hair on the side if you want to, but I'm askin' yuh by special request to part this bird's nose in the middle. It's a pretty big shot up there, as big shots go, you know."

"Hmmm, let's see . . . you shave a lot of tough beards in that barber shop of your's, don't you. Well listen, when you meet this guy Anderson, just make yourself at home and work on his chin!"

"LET'S GO, FREDDY!"

She was only a pugilist's daughter and, naturally she liked her punch.

Bucs Idle But Move Into Lead

Giants Knock Cardinals Out of First Place.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Only 314 games separate the league leading Pirates from the fourth-place Giants in the National league scramble today, providing a four-cornered race close enough to make the turnstiles click merrily for many weeks to come. The Giants, who are furnishing most of the fireworks at present, knocked the Cardinals out of the lead yesterday while Pittsburgh was idle.

The same old gang is setting the pace in the Heydler circuit and indications are fast growing that the American league campaign will be another two-horse race between Philadelphia and New York. The Yanks, off on another tear against the western clubs, won their fifth straight yesterday and took second place from the Browns, who were unable to stop the Athletics. The latter have yet to lose two games in succession this year.

The Yanks, with Ruth, Meusel, Koenig and Lary out of the regular lineup, have not made an error nor lost a game since the club was shaken up, and not a single pitcher has been knocked out. They nosed out Cleveland in the twelfth yesterday, 6 to 5.

With his mates piling up a comfortable lead off Crowder, Ruben Walberg of the Macklin machine led the Browns to four hits and won 5 to 2. Cochrane and Miller hit homers for the A's and Kress and Melillo did for the Browns.

Master Melvin Ott's twelfth homer of the season, coming with two on base, featured New York's 6 to 4 win over the Cardinals. Chick Hafey starred for the Cards with three hits, including his thirteenth homer.

Buzz McWeeny of Brooklyn blanked the Cubs for eight innings but blew up in the ninth when the veteran Bancroft messed up two chances for double plays. A pinch hit by Gabby Hartnett gave Chicago a 4 to 3 edge.

Both tailenders, the Reds and the Red Sox, stepped out of character to put on a batting carnival. Scoring nine runs in the sixth, Cincinnati overwhelmed the Phillies, 21 to 4. Klein, the Phil's fence buster, kept the lead in the home run derby by cracking out No. 14. Cincinnati's 21 runs set a new high scoring total for the year in the National league.

In Boston's 17 to 2 slaughter of the White Sox, the Red Sox collected 23 hits for 39 bases and made nine consecutive hits in the eighth after two were out, scoring eight runs. Each Boston player hit safely and the situation became so desperate in the eighth that Manager Lena Blackburne, a former infielder, went to the mound for Chicago.

Hands Unseen

New Mystery Story of "Gray Phantom,"

Loveable Outlaw.

By Herman Landon

Copyright by Street and Smith Corporation.

"There's something I'm very curious about," he confided lightly, as if the matter were of no great consequence, "and I hope you can clear up the mystery for me. Last night I slept in this room. The door was bolted, just as you see it now. The window was locked, and the shutters securely fastened on the inside. It doesn't seem possible anybody could have got into the room, and yet a sum of money disappeared from my pocket during the night."

"Gosh!" exclaimed Green, his unkempt brows crinkling up. "I guess the man you want is Sam Bowman, the constable. My job is carpenter's, not catchin' thieves." Green looked at his tool kit as if about to pick it up and walk off.

"You misunderstand me," Mr. Craig pointed out. "The money was a mere trifle. I am only curious to know how the rascal got in and naturally I don't want people prowling about my bedroom at night. There must be a way of entering this room that I'm not aware of. Being a carpenter, you might be able to point it out to me."

Green pulled at his drooping mustache for a moment, then stepped to the window and gave the catches a critical inspection.

"Nuthin' wrong here," he announced. "Sure you had 'em fastened?"

"Positive, Green. Wouldn't it be possible for some one to slip a piece of wire between the frames and work the catches that way? It seems I've heard of it be'g done."

The carpenter looked again, then shook his head. "Nope," he declared. "Them sashes fit too tight for that. Anyhow, didn't you tell me the shutters was closed?"

"So they were, Green. Even if a man could work the window catches from the outside, which you tell me is impossible, he would still have to manipulate the shutters some way. It wouldn't be an easy job, I take it."

"It couldn't be done, that's all," asserted Green after a careful examination of the heavy shutters and their fastenings. "Nope, the rascal musta got in some other way."

"What about the door?"

Green inspected it, and pronounced it proof against invasion. He called particular attention to the safety catch, which fell into place automatically and clamped the bolt after it had been shot. The hinges and the lock were also found to be in perfect order.

"Then I don't see how the scoundrel got in," said Mr. Craig in a puzzled tone. "Oh what about the fireplace?"

Green removed the screen and the andirons, got down on his knees and looked up.

"A thin man might slip down the flue," he declared, "but he'd have to be all-fired thin, and he'd make so much racket that he'd wake up everybody in the house. Nope, it ain't likely he got in that way."

Mr. Craig contemplated the fireplace with an uneasy expression. Green's assurance seemed to have left a vague doubt in his mind.

"We seem to be stumped, then," he remarked. "That is, unless there is a secret panel somewhere in the floor, walls or ceiling." He smiled indulgently. "I don't take much stock in such things, but the fact remains that somebody sneaked in here last night. Wish you would make sure, Green."

The carpenter did, and for an hour Mr. Craig watched him tapping with his hammer. He made a thorough, workmanlike search, beginning with the floor, continuing along to walls, and then, with the aid of the step-ladder, extending his inspection to the ceiling. When he finished every square foot of the room had been subjected to a painstaking test.

"Very strange," said Mr. Craig, shaking his head. "I don't understand it at all."

Green wiped his face with a blue handkerchief. "You can take it from me," he said with conviction, "nobody I don't care how slick they is—can get in here if you keep the door and shutters closed. It'd be easier for a cow to climb up a greased pole. 'Mebehy,' and he grinned wisely, "you jest mislaid the coin. My wife does that ever' now and then."

"Wonder if I did?" said Mr. Craig musingly, trying to dispose of the matter as lightly as possible in order to avoid village gossip. "There seems to be no other explanation. I am sure, if there had been a loophole of any kind, you would have found it. Here, Green."

He extracted a bill from his wallet, and the carpenter thanked him volubly as he saw the numerals in the corner. Alone a moment later, Mr. Craig looked about him with a satisfied air. Green had given him precisely the assurance he wanted. Barring the very slight chance that some one might use the chimney as a mode of entrance, there was no way in which an enemy could come upon him by stealth. The Gray Phantom might be clever, diabolically clever, but even his genius would be inadequate to the task of entering an inaccessible room. Moreover, Mr. Craig would have the company of Harry Bell, who would help him while away the dreary hours. He was beginning to look forward to the coming of night with some eagerness, already congratulating himself upon having frustrated the Phantom's designs.

A rap sounded on the door. It was bolted, so he stepped forward to open it. William stood at attention outside.

"Mr. Bell has just arrived, sir," he announced.

Eleven o'clock had just struck that night when Mr. Craig poured out another drink from the decanter which William had left on the table along with a supply of cigars and cigarettes and a tray stacked high with sandwiches.

"I'd go slow on that stuff if I were you, Craig," drawled Harry Bell disapprovingly. He was a lean, swarthy man, with a face that was generally lighted up by a smile of cynical amusement. "A man with nerves like yours can't stand much of it."

"Who said anything about nerves?" demanded Mr. Craig.

"Nobody, but I've got eyes."

Mr. Craig snapped into a sullen silence. Bell's presence, though a source of comfort, was also a bit irritating. Mr. Craig had never grown used to the detective's habit of addressing him as an equal, without the prefix "Mr."

To which his wealth and standing entitled him. Too, Mr. Bell's hard blue eyes always gave him the impression that they were seeing right through him, reading his mind with the same ease as if it had been the front page of a newspaper.

"The wind seems to be rising," observed Mr. Craig, presently, after he had listened for a while to the noises outside.

"Sounds creepy, doesn't it?" Bell, sprawling in a huge armchair, stretched his limbs languorously. Though slightly built, he gave an impression of wiry strength and great mental and physical agility. "Spooky old dump you have here, Craig. Must get on your nerves at times. No wonder you sent for me to keep you company."

"Keep me company? Where did you get that idea?"

Bell chuckled softly. "It's obvious, Craig. Since you haven't given me anything else to do, I must infer that you wanted my services as a companion. Or would a bodyguard be more correct?"

"Nonsense!" snapped Mr. Craig. He was pacing the floor with short, quick strides. "Listen, Bell. I am paying you for your services, and paying you well. My reasons for bringing you out here don't concern you in the least."

"Keep cool," drawled Bell. "Didn't mean any offense, you know. I've got no curiosity, no morals, no conscience. The only thing that concerns me is my fee after I've earned it. Keep your secrets to yourself, I'm not interested in them."

"Secrets?" Mr. Craig stopped short in front of the detective. "What do you mean?"

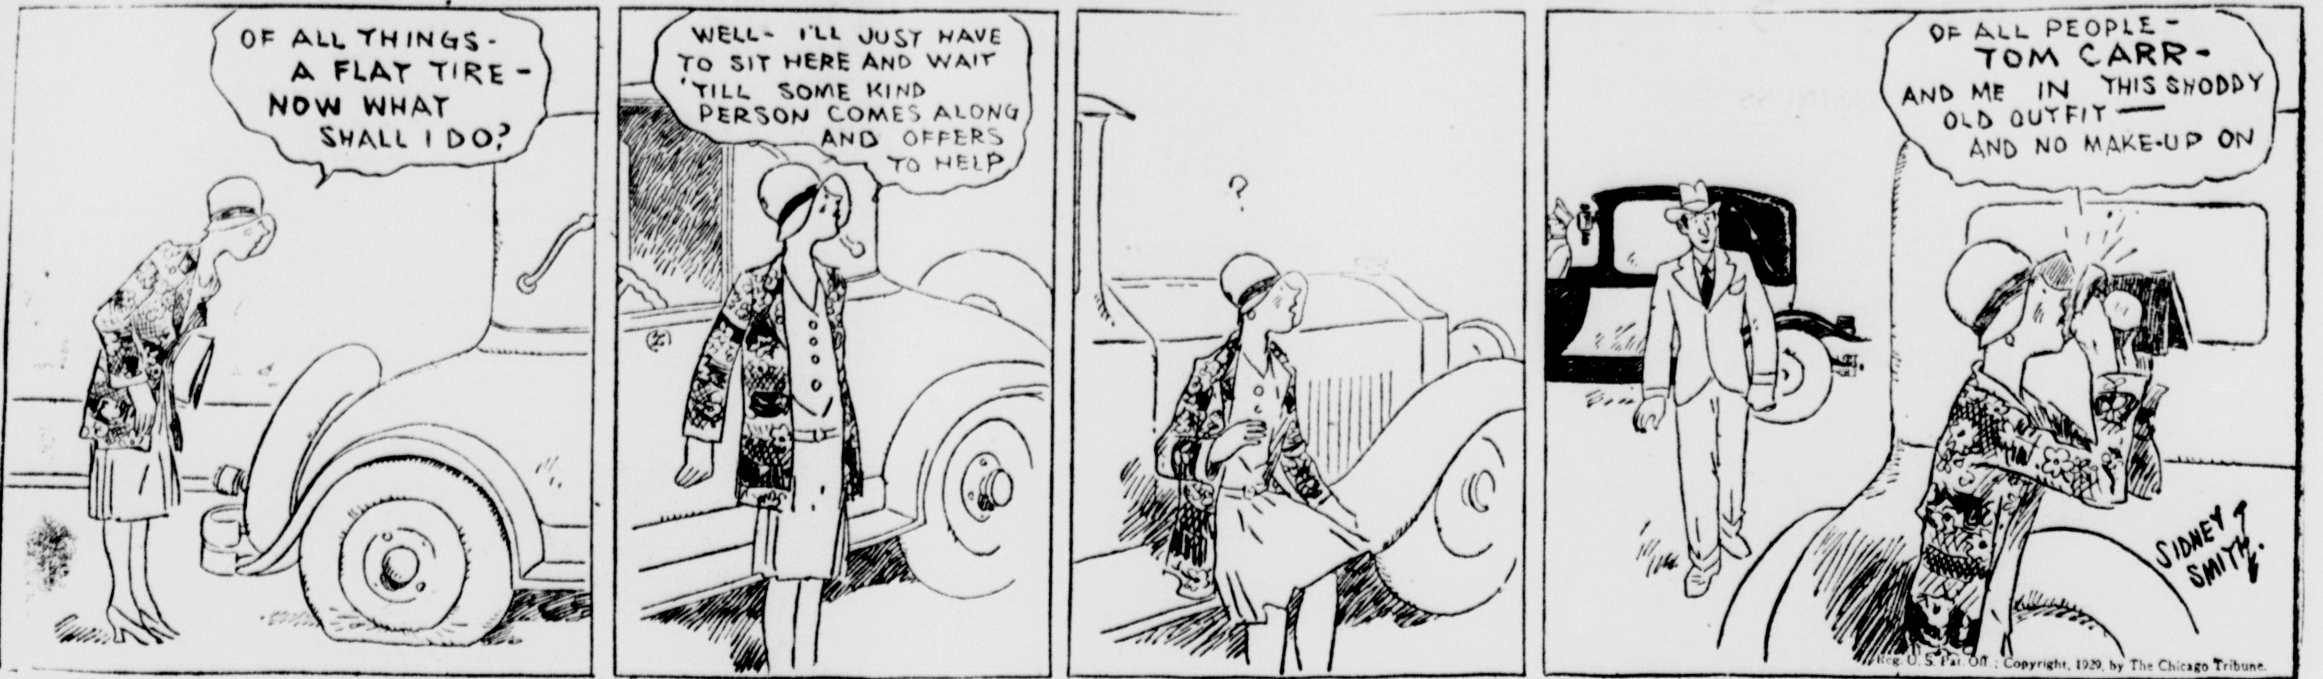

"Just what I said. The detective's eyes traveled coolly up and down the length of his client's tall, loose-jointed figure. "I don't know what you are afraid of, Craig, and I don't care. I'll see that nothing happens to you until you fire me off the job, but I have no desire to pry into your secrets."

"What makes you think I'm afraid?"

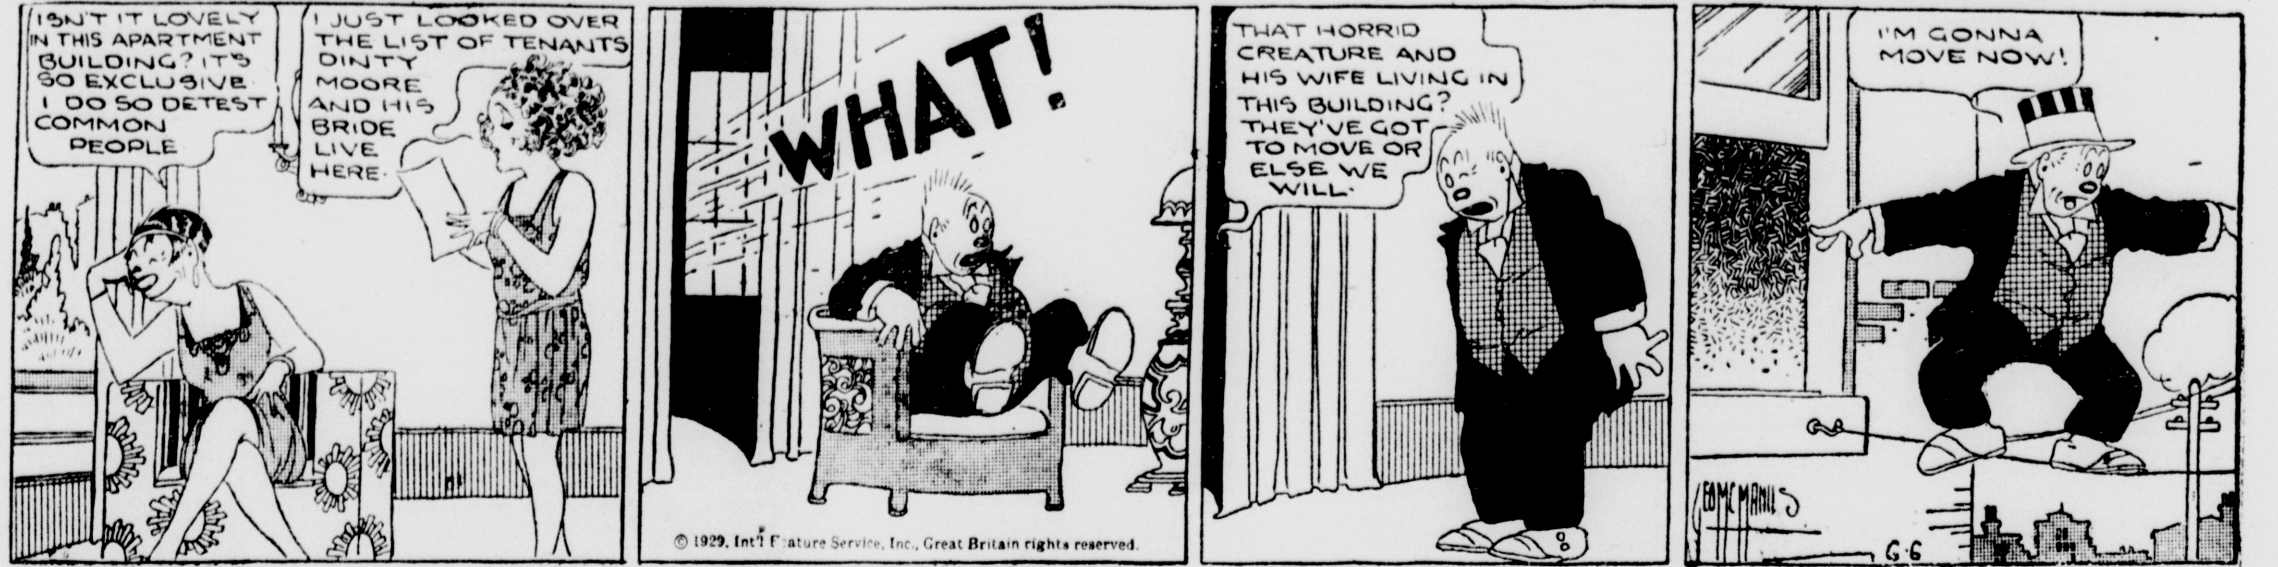

"The way you act. Twice in the last hour you've looked under the bed. Three times you have looked behind the dressing cabinet. You have examined the bolt on the door five times, and the fastenings on the shutters an equal number of times. I've been keeping count. You haven't been able to relax for one minute since it got dark. If that isn't acting like a scared man, I don't know what is."

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed.
External treatments seldom banish Piles.

Nor does cutting remove the cause. The cause is inside—bad circulation. The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Mathews Original Cut Rate who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.—Adv.

TRUE HEAVEN

The story is a great human drama that came out of the World War, involving a young British officer and a mysterious and beautiful girl, "Judith," who proves to be a spy in the enemy service.

Within British territory the young officer meets the girl, in a strange way, and falls in love with her. She reciprocates and later, when he penetrates enemy lines as a member of the intelligence department, he is captured—by the girl. She then has to decide whether to give him up to be shot or allow him to go free. What she does forms the smashing climax of the picture.
